A.A.H.A. Decision Gives Wetaskiwin 3 to 1 Edge

BY DOUG BARNES

Tuesday, April 4 the Rebels outskated the Wetaskiwin Colonels to the tune of a 5-2 score. The Rebels were lead by a two-goal performance by Art Assman. Other goal-makers were Sam Belcourt, Terry McGowan and Terry Day. Barry Pankewicz in goal for the Rebels came up with a big game, kicking out 36 shots. While Greg Gunther of Wetaskiwin had 24 shots at his net he only handled 19. This win placed the Rebels ahead one game in the best of seven series, with two games to one.

Thursday appeared to be a black day for the Rebels as a hockey club. Rebels general manager Harold Reinhart received a phone call from Rebels League representative Len Bannard saying that the League Commissioner Cece Colwell had informed him that the Tuesday night game was under protest.

Apparently, the playing of Larry Wall was under question, as well as a query on Doug Hall and Terry Day. The Hall and Day query was later dropped.

Rebels coach Sam Belcourt asked Commissioner Colwell if the protest would be upheld before the Rebels went on the ice in Wetaskiwin that night. However, Mr. Colwell would not give a definite answer, and as a result, the Rebels

At this time the car has not been found.

The Al-Anon Family Groups are a fellowship of wives, husbands, relatives and friends of members of Alcoholics Anonymous and of problem drinkers generally. Members of Al-Anon are banded together to solve their common problems of fear, insecurity, lack of understanding of the alcoholic, and of the warped family relationships associated with alcoholism.

The message of the Al-Anon Family Groups is a story of hope. It is the story of men and women who once felt helpless and powerless to deal with the alcoholism of their loved ones. Today these men and women no longer feel lost or lonely. They have learned that there are simple things they can do directly to help themselves and indirectly to help their alcoholic partners.

Many who are now members of Family Groups have already seen their loved ones achieve sobriety, but they have found that life with a sober alcoholic can present special problems of adjustment. Others still have active problem drinkers in their homes. All of them need the fellowship which Al-Anon affords. All of them find strength and comfort in one of Al-Anon's tenets, the Serenity Prayer:

God grant me the Serenity to accept the things I cannot change Courage to change the things I can and Wisdom to know the difference.

Knowledge and understanding in a family are keys to building a better life with an alcoholic. This means that it is important to understand the nature of alcoholism itself, a malady little understood for centuries. Alcoholism has been a serious personal and social problem from the beginning of civilization. Doctors, spiritual leaders, friends and relatives have always tried to help the alcoholic, with little real success until recent years.

Message of Al-Anon ...A Story of Hope

Today, however, there is a new and promising approach, an increasing recognition of the fact that alcoholism is an illness and that the alcoholic is essentially a sick person. One of the most exciting discoveries is that alcoholism can actually be arrested, even if the illness itself cannot be cured. This parallels increasing knowledge in dealing with other health problems, notably diabetes. Although no cure for diabetes had ever been discovered, we now know that the diabetic can arrest his illness and live a normal life as long as he avoids sugar, continues to take insulin and follows a common sense diet.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

RUSTY ZANDER, M.L.A.

The debate on the Throne Speech is over and last Tuesday the debate ended on the Budget.

Numerous and interesting thoughts came out in both of the debates. In main, of course, was the decentralization of industries and government agencies and offices into the smaller towns in our province.

This bold move, of course, is very difficult, however, not impossible. The major concern is to move trained personnel from larger centres, and to retain new personnel in the areas that these would be located in and the labor force available.

There is no doubt that our Government will proceed in this direction; however, surveys must be taken in each area concerned before the move is undertaken.

In agriculture, of course, the marketing of agricultural products abroad is the main theme and every effort will be made to expand our sales in Pacific rim areas. We will, of course, exert all pressures in the European Markets and the United Kingdom as well.

Every effort will also be made to make the marketing boards function more efficiently by working with the Government in the marketing of agricultural products.

Transportation and better roads and highways throughout the province leading to our major towns and villages, seem to be the crying need of our urban rural areas.

Of course, the Banff-Lake Louise development seems to be the topic of concern to most people and it is certainly hoped that I may get some feedback from my constituency and the direction we are to take on this project is very necessary at this time since the Government must take a stand on this issue before too long. I do hope that my electors will help and give some information on the matter.

Additional money is also available for sewage installation in our cities, towns and villages, from the Federal fund in the amount of $10 million.

Dates have also been set by the legislature for royalties hearing to take place toward the end of May and a final decision in July of this year.

Bill No. 5 is an amendment to the unsatisfied judgement fund, under the Dept. of Highways Act, making it possible for payment to a maximum of $500 for damages resulting from hit and run cases and others, and in cases where the offenders cannot be located.

This amendment will make possible payment, without going to the courts, which has proved very expensive to the fund in the past years, and it may be worthy to note that the fund is still in the red by about $1 million as of December 31, 1971.

Retirement: What Then?

THE TIME TO ANSWER "What Then?" is before the day of retirement comes. That may not be due until one reaches sixty or sixty-five, but at forty a person should be learning about it and developing the expertise to cope with it and accumulating the necessities to make it comfortable.

When a child arrives at the age to go to school, when the youth enters high school or university, when the man or woman takes a first job and gets married: these are not thought of as age tombstones, but as events in the stream of life; as changes in status. In the same way, retirement is to be looked upon as the beginning of a new life experience.

Every person who retires is a special case, and he needs to give himself personal attention. No formula will fit everyone, but everyone can benefit by applying the experiences of others to his own case. It is sad to see those who reach retirement facing difficulties which they might have avoided by forethought and planning.

A fresh outlook

It is disappointing when one depends upon the reputation and memories of the past to sustain him in the present. One need not copy youthful ways or act in a skittish manner in order to keep a fresh outlook on life. The fire of youth may be tempered with the gravity of age, but the circumspection of age may be enlivened with the vivacity of youth.

The greatest dividends in terms of retirement success and enjoyment are gained by those who start planning early in life, so that the transfer from their first to their second career is made without anxiety.

The man is depriving himself of much enjoyment and satisfaction who reaches the day of retirement with no programme in his mind except to do a little fishing or take a month's motor trip. It is unwise to trust that chance will turn up some occupation that is worth while.

Planning this second life can be done more intelligently than planning the first, because a man is smarter now. The clever thing is to make a list of the things you might like to do when you leave your present job, and then, in your spare time, try them out.

Don't let go

The vital thing for a retiring person is not to let go. Life consists in movement. In a world that moves as fast as ours, no one can keep his balance if he stands still. His life must have direction and purpose.

Activity as a primary human need is basic to the retired person just as it is to the youth leaving high school. Both need activity that will give them a feeling of adequacy, accomplishment, and usefulness.

Retirement is a time to take up new and useful occupations adapted to one's capabilities. A slack existence is the opposite of aliveness, and it contributes nothing to our continued need for dignity.

By the time they reach retirement age people have coped with many other situations requiring adjustment: entering and leaving school, the first job, marriage, having and raising children, and departure of the children. Retirement is just another occasion requiring us to adapt ourselves to a new place in the social scheme. Every part of life has its own advantages and disadvantages. Each has its qualities and conditions to be met and adjusted to.

The way to answer "What Then?" with assurance is to start now to notice things having to do with retirement and to find the answers to problems before they start nagging you.

No one need feel apprehensively sorry for himself as he steps out toward his second prime of life. Almost nothing can happen to him that can rival the hardships of body or mind that somehow he managed to live through in his earlier years.

Now, with his developed power of judgment untrammelled by the passion that often afflicts youth, he has the opportunity to display his dynamic maturity, to continue to live meaningfully, and to embrace what can be a most satisfying life.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

By Kevin Peterson of The Calgary Herald

Premier Peter Lougheed last week outlined a tough new Alberta stand on the reform of the Canadian constitution: the province will risk being the holdout province if a new agreement does not provide a review of existing spending responsibilities and taxing powers.

The premier's remarks came at the climax of a 106-minute speech to the Legislature, the only major address he plans at the current session. And he left little doubt that he takes the matter seriously—he warned he might seek a new mandate from the electorate if the province does block a new constitution.

The premier said his government would not accept the Victoria Charter for amending the constitution, a document put forward last spring which all provinces but Quebec agreed to.

Ottawa recently offered the provinces control of the family allowance scheme, a concession many observers believe clears the air for a new round of constitutional talks.

"This charter did not come to grips with responsibility of governments and the allocation of resources," the premier said. "Any renewal of constitutional discussion will in our view have as a condition present some machinery for resolving the critical issue of review and determination of the allocation of resources and responsibilities."

Mr. Lougheed's complaint is a common one among provincial governments, although no other premier has threatened to insist that a review be part of a new constitution. The argument from the provinces' viewpoint is that their governments are responsible for increasingly costly areas such as health, education, and welfare while the federal government has first call on major revenue sources such as personal and corporate income tax.

Mr. Lougheed said existing arrangements stand in the way of his government's attempts to develop a balanced economy in Alberta, as well as putting a break on his attempts to provide social programs.

The growth of metropolitan centres—particularly rapidly expanding areas such as Calgary and Edmonton—is stalemated because city residents face large property tax bills to provide new services. With a re-allocation of government resources, the property tax could be used to exclusively finance municipal services instead of having to help out educational financing.

Mr. Lougheed complained also of public apathy to important constitutional questions: "The public has shown a remarkable degree of disinterest. They consider it a normal fight for more revenues versus the fear of being responsible for more taxation."

The problem of lack of public concern may prove to be the biggest stumbling block he will face in his campaign. In the first few days after his speech, there was little evidence of increased public concern. Opposition spokesmen were frankly cynical of the statement, with the Socreds saying new premiers always seem to think they can succeed where others have failed for decades. NDP leader Grant Notley accused the premier of "tilting at windmills."

Report From Parliament Hill

By Allen Sulatycky, M.P.

The bill to amend the Canadian Labour Code has been amended and re-submitted to Parliament.

Under the bill, unions would have the right to apply to the Labour Relations Board to reopen negotiations if the employer introduced extensive technological change during the term of the agreement, without giving adequate notice.

Thus, the provisions would not apply in cases where the employer had given prior notice before the closed period of the contract; where the employer and union had taken matters into their own hand and set out in their agreement procedures for negotiating the effects of change; or where the agreement already stipulated provisions to assist affected employees.

The Labour Relations Board would become a full-time job and the members would no longer be representative of employers and employees. Added to its traditional functions of determining bargaining units and certifying bargaining agents, would be jurisdiction over unfair practices, and problems arising from successor rights and technological change.

On another subject, bargaining rights would be extended to professional employees, who have tended to be in a no-man's land between organized employees and managers.

The bill would strengthen and extend provisions regarding unfair practices, which would be adjudicated by the Labour Relations Board instead of going before the courts. Unfair practice provisions would be extended affording increased protections for employers, unions, employees, and union members.

Finally, the role of the arbitrator would be strengthened, and steps taken to protect his decisions from excessive judicial review.

The bill is part of a continuing effort by the government, to encourage free collective bargaining and positive dispute settlement.

Have you discussed the Farm Management Course with any of your neighbors who completed the course? We believe we offered a worthwhile course to the 20 individuals whom Canada Manpower personnel accepted. (However, don't just accept our word for it!) We are hoping a similar course may be offered in the near future.

Ask any of the following participants who received a certificate indicating their completion of the course: Otto Albers, Harold Christen, Daryl Davis, Albert Deering, Ed Felske, Gayland Fuhr, Frig Gardener, George Graden, Victor Lauder, Henry Rabe, Jacob Renz, H.A. Ritter, Gerald Sperling, Don Stephenson, Alner Schatzke, Brian Webster, Charles White, Konrad Zach, Stan Zaniewicz, and Dennis Johnson.

This group displayed keen interest in all sections of the course resulting in lively question periods and discussion groups. Noon hours and coffee breaks were a joke trader's delight. The course benefitted both Earle and myself as the group forced us to present practical material. Hopefully, we can be more useful to you because of the experience.

For many purebred breeders "Bull sale time" is the culmination of a year's work and planning. For the buyer, it is an excellent opportunity to compare and pick from a wider selection of herd sires with the opinion of a qualified judge to support or refute their choice. The Edmonton and Drayton Valley Sales have been most encouraging.

Buyers will have an opportunity to pick a performance tested bull from the group on test at the Alberta Beef Cattle Test Station at Ellerslie. Please note that only the top half of the bulls according to their official test period--will be eligible for sale on April 27. Keep this date open and make plans to attend the field day and sale.

HOME TEST

We have begun the weigh-off schedule for purebred and commercial herds and will be very busy for the balance of April. Consequently, we may not always be in our office. Our steno, Mrs. Mary Norman will be glad to take a message and/or obtain any information you may need.

Special Services At Weekend

A weekend of special meetings was held with Pastor W. DeMaere and family from the Michener Hill Church of God, Red Deer. The Saturday evening service featured several musical numbers by Pastor and Mrs. DeMaere, Ken and Cindy, their teenage son and daughter. Each shared a testimony of what God had done to their lives.

The younger children Kevin and Cheryl made valuable musical contributions to the services.

Sunday morning was a challenge to the men of the church and closed with the men and their wives standing before the altar in rededication to the task that is before them.

Sunday evening again included several musical selections and a message following which several came for spiritual help.

These services were a real encouragement to the entire church.

MARSH WORLD by ANGUS SHORTT Ducks Unlimited

FRESHWATER SNAILS

Snails are found in almost all freshwater ponds, marshes, rivers and lakes. All have a single coiled shell, which may be round, flattened or spire shaped. Three examples are shown above. Snails move about by gliding slowly on a flexible "foot", movement is apparently aided by a mucus slime which is laid down by the animal as it progresses. Snails rate high as food for many fish, ducks and other waterbirds as well as other marsh inhabitants.

A bouquet to Kathy Bright and the ladies who applied make-up on 250 performers for three shows. Many thanks to the mothers and fathers who helped in the dressing rooms, supervised the seating area, worked behind the backdrop and in the music box.

There are 18 mothers who took charge of costumes for each number and the executive thank them for their work: Jenny Harris for Arabian Nights, Donna Gowalko for Cave Men, Berta Brooks for English Country Garden, Mrs.

Thanks also to Mrs. Doreen

Last but not least thanks to the newspaper for the very good coverage they have given the Skating Club the past year.

Thanks everyone!

Witnesses Attend City Assembly

"Survival is a matter of great concern to all. World events show that the nations now are on a collision course with God and this collision is inevitable. The purpose of this destruction is for the good of the earth and God-fearing man."

Over 2,190 delegates of Jehovah's Witnesses heard this remark at the public address given at their three-day convention at the Ross Shepherd Composite High School last week in Edmonton.

The speaker, Mr. D.G. Bevan in his talk "Are You 'Marked' for Survival?" further stated, "God exhibits his loving kindness by thus enforcing justice so the righteous ones may live in peace. By their conduct and attitude, individuals put themselves in line for survival or destruction."

Mr. Ken Hayhurst, presiding minister of the Drayton Valley congregation reported that the convention provided practical information for families to build up spiritual and moral qualities. Experiences were related by those who had success in meeting and overcoming family and social pressures.

Mr. Hayhurst also stated that a highlight of the convention was the immersion and ordination of 24 new members. He said that in the past year over 150,000 new ministers have been added to the ranks of the Jehovah's Witnesses.

Delegates from 24 congregations in northwestern Alberta, from Wetaskiwin to Grande Cache, were present. Some 45 delegates attended from the local congregation.

NO HUNTING -- IN CANADA

Magnolia
News

The following article, written by Larry Johnston, is reprinted from the Alberta Fish and Game Association magazine "Defending All Outdoors".

In July, 1971, the first serious meeting was held to foresee the future of hunting in Canada. Present were wildlife representatives from each Canadian province, and the Territories. Chairing the group was Gordon Kerr, head of Wildlife in Alberta.

Mr. Kerr discussed the hunting situation: "The hunter grossly underestimates the seriousness of the situation. Political power lies with the NON-hunter, and so does emotional power. If the hunter does not shape up to an acceptable standard of operation, he will not be allowed to hunt, purely by being outnumbered by political and emotional groups. In heavily populated areas, you have a great number of people who are uninformed and uninvolved, and they simply do not understand what is going on. It is a serious thing, that because of lack of understanding, the environmental "kick" will result in the loss of hunting privileges. Remove the opportunity of management, and you remove the opportunity of any type of public recreation of a consumption nature.

A very important part of management is animal population control, to keep animals within carrying capacity, to keep disease situations under control, and if we are no longer allowed to handle, inoculate, or manipulate herds and habitat, we lose the right to manage, and this we cannot afford.

We have sat and watched anti-hunting movements grow, and it has been a one-sided story. They seem to centre on the consequences of hunting, and neglect to mention the consequences of not hunting. It seems to be a 'Sweet Mother Nature' approach, with everything sweet and gentle and in balance, with man disrupting all this. We must tell people the facts of life.

Mother Nature is NOT a sweet and wonderful thing. She is without emotion, and basically, Mother Nature is a layman's term for the Science of Ecology."

Dr. L.P. Linduska explained

CANADIAN DENTURE CLINIC

Certified Dental Machanic

the U.S. situation is similar, except it is far more advanced; however, the political power is divided more evenly between the hunter and the non-hunter. "Earmarked money" could be the reason, since the U.S. hunter, in addition to the purchase of licenses, pays an 11 per cent tax on all his sporting equipment. License sales total $96 million. Duck stamp purchases $6 million, and excise tax adds $22 million, giving a total of $124 million to meet the needs of wildlife in the U.S. This supports in a large measure, the habitat, research, and management of game crops.

Although Canada does not have "earmarked money", through taxes, even the person that does not hunt, and is not paying for the license, is paying for the benefit of "seeing" wildlife species. The beneficial aspects of earmarked money, are the lack of political manipulation of wildlife funds, and increased muscle for the hunting fraternity.

As long as funds are allocated by political powers, we cannot claim financial contributions to wildlife management, nor can we provide additional support for worthwhile programs.

National magazines dealing with hunting claim readership in excess of 15 million people, a large portion of which can be and are swayed to the anti-hunting establishment. Linduska states, "One of the first things we must do is clean up our hunting procedures. There is no need for self-policing on the part of hunters."

Mr. Kerr explains, "I think sportsmen can do several things. They can clean up their own shop. A large number of hunters have no ethics at all."

They feel they have the right to hunt, rather than the privilege to hunt. They don't respect the rights of landowners, and they fail to recognize environmental crisis. Hunting, in the not-too-distant future will be made illegal, if politics are allowed to sway funds and change existing regulations without a powerful representation from the hunting fraternity. Suppliers of hunting equipment are mainly the U.S., consequently we lack a powerful pro-hunting lobby in government circles. The media appears reluctant to tell people the facts of life, and hunters are not sufficiently organized to force issues of wildlife management. It seems essential that earmarked money is the way to political muscle."

At the end of the conference this recommendation was put forth:

That the conference express its concern over the continuing lack of public understanding of wildlife management principles and objectives resulting in misconceptions about the role of hunting and its effect on species of wildlife and recommends:

(a) that the federal and provincial agencies cooperate to improve public understanding of hunting.
(b) that the Canadian Wildlife Service information and interpretation programs give recognition to this problem.

(c) that the Canadian Wildlife Federation take this problem into consideration and assist in a program to improve the public image of the Canadian hunter.

(d) that a coordinating committee be established to study the problem in detail and prepare recommendations for submission to the 1972 conference together with a report on action taken in the interim.

Let us clean our own shop to win favor with the public and at the same time, defend our sports and wildlife with responsible attitudes.

Whitefish Study Planned

A detailed study of the Whitefish in Lake Wabamun is being proposed by Calgary Power Ltd. through a research team from the University of Alberta.

T.D. Stanley, Manager of Production for Calgary Power Ltd., announced this week the company will spend $12,000 in the next two years to study spawning and development of the Whitefish in the lake.

The study will be coordinated by Dr. D.N. Gallup of the University of Alberta, who has been involved in a four-year research program on the lake. The Fish and Wildlife branch of the provincial Department of Lands and Forests will also cooperate.

The primary purpose of the study will be to determine if the thermal plants have any effect on the Whitefish, Wabamun's prime sport fish.

A community meeting was held in the hall March 23 with a speaker from Stony Plain, and the main topic being a new hall. A committee was formed which met at the hall the following evening to devise ways to raise building money for the hall. The members of the community club will be canvassing for contributions. A. donations will be most gratefully accepted.

The W. Campbell family spent part of March 26 visiting with Charles Anderson in Edmonton. Recent visitors to the community were Mr. and Mrs. H. Brown of Edmonton.

The weekly whist party was held at the Kidner home March 25. Ladies winners were Betty Strangway with first and travelling; Doreen Thomeus won second and Hazel LaBoucane consolation. Gentlemen winners were George Egle first; Jack Balfour second; Tom Thomeus travelling; and Dean Strangway consolation.

New Records Set At City Sale

The highest average since 1951 was set at the Canadian Western Stock Show and Sale as 130 Horned Hereford bulls set a mark of $830. This compares with the 1951 average of $912 on 82 head.

High price of the day was $2,600 paid for the grand champion and junior champion bull entered by A. Matejka and Sons of Ponoka and sold to Nelson Brown of Vimy. The reserve champion and reserve junior champion stood next at $2,400 as August Capelle of Gunn saw his two-year old bull go to Simpson Ranching Ltd. of Calgary.

POLLED HEREFORD SALE

The second highest average on record for polled hereford bulls was set when 66 bulls averaged $898. A 1951 spring sale average of $912 was made on 82 bulls of the hereford breed, but horned bulls were included in that figure.

Top selling polled bull was Hav Numode Lad 19B, a two-year old bull entered by B. and H. Homes of Vimy who also purchased the grand champion hereford bull.

SHORTHORN JUDGING

David G. Durie of Lavoy dominated the shorthorn classes. His February 1970 red bull, Duralta Sensation, was named senior champion and grand champion, while a white May 1970 bull, Duralta White Cedar, took junior champion and reserve grand champion honors. Both were polled animals. Another Durie bull, Duralta Perfect 2nd, got the ribbons for reserve senior champion. The three Durie bulls teamed up to easily capture the award for the best three bulls in the shorthorn show.

ABERDEEN ANGUS JUDGING

Grand Champion and Senior Champion Aberdeen Angus bull was Hesse's Black General 63, an April 1970 entry of Joseph Hesse and Sons of St. Albert.

Reserve Grand Champion and Reserve Senior Champion placings were taken by a three year old bull, Dry Grass Modern Marshall, entered by Graham Snider of Toftield.

SHORTHORN SALE

The high price of $2,600 in the horned hereford sale was also matched by the shorthorn breed. Twenty-one head averaged $818.

Grand champion of the shorthorn classes, a February 1970 bull, Duralta Sensation from D. G. Durie of Lavoy hit the $2,600 mark and was picked up by three Andrew, Alberta buyers, Milton Hennig, John Skorekyo and Arnold Moisey.

ABERDEEN ANGUS SALE

Thirty-seven Angus bulls were auctioned at an average price of $833, a new high for the breed at an Edmonton Exhibition Association sponsored sale.

High price was $1,800 paid for the grand champion bull by Leo Verbeck of Calahoo. Second high seller was an entry from Edward Molzan of Barrhead which brought $1,750 from R. & R. Warrilow of Minburn. Another Hesse bull brought $1,550, selling to D 7 Ranching Ltd. of Peace River.

MARSH WORLD

by ANGUS SHORTT
Ducks Unlimited

DUCKWEEDS

Minute floating plants commonly found in calm water areas of marshes, sloughs and potholes. They grow in dense mats, often covering the entire surface. Two kinds are illustrated, A - Lesser duckweed (Lemna minor) this tiny plant is disc-shaped and averages only about one-eighth of an inch long, each with a fine thread-like root. B - Lily-leaved duckweed (Lemna trisulca) has oblong leaves one-quarter of an inch or more in length. Also grows in dense mats the plants interlocking in a net-like pattern. Duckweeds are valuable duck food.

Most Albertans find it extremely difficult to budget household expenses successfully when bills vary from month-to-month.

That's why so many gas company customers find our Payment Equalization Plan a great help to monthly budgeting.

Northwestern will estimate your annual gas consumption and divide the cost by twelve. This way you pay the same amount each month of the year.

INTERIOR DECORATING ANYONE?

With spring and summer just around the corner, many of you will, or have started to do a little housecleaning. Others are planning a new home, remodelling or simply redecorating. Whatever task you are undertaking, perhaps you could use a few ideas on interior decorating.

Good taste, like "card sense", may be a gift of birth or a product of study and experience. There are no set rules to follow for interior decorating. There are however guidelines or certain concepts of beauty which have evolved through the ages. One way of learning about interior decorating is through courses but a great deal can be learned by reading books and monthly publications available on building, furniture and home decorating. They are practical and stimulating and an unending source of ideas for the amateur decorator. Design centers, furniture shows, new homes and stores give unending sources of ideas. By observing and comparing knowledge is absorbed, so the ability to formulate opinions on color, design, and arrangements and to distinguish between styles which are whims of fashion, can be acquired. This discrimination is what one terms "good taste."

What to do first -- Any area, room or home is used by many family members in many different ways. Each area is therefore planned for specific purposes! A room for many purposes for instance a living room, is used for reading, entertaining, perhaps watching T.V. and it may also be your games and craft area.

If the immediate problem is to furnish a room or an apartment, or a home and there is no time for study, store visiting or extensive shopping, there are still practical ways of introducing good taste into decorating. The easiest and least expensive method is the use of color. Wallpapers or wall coverings can add an area of interest to any color scheme. Furniture is often the next area of concern and is coupled with the use of fabrics in draperies. All these topics I will deal with in the next two columns. Decorating is often hard work but it can also be fun and may develop into a lifetime hobby.

A new way to really get your mail moving: Your local Postal Code.

By now, you've probably received your new Postal Code. And you may have seen or heard ads telling people in big cities how accurate and complicated their codes are.

Well, your local code is not as complicated. Obviously, since fewer people live in your area, we don't need as many codes. In fact, all we need is one code to represent all the people in your town and on your rural route.

So, if you forget your code, just ask one of your neighbours. Then don't forget, send it to your friends.

If they live in big cities, tell them how complicated their life is.

Get the habit.

LIBRARY NEWS

"The National Geographic" for March has articles on Alaska's tundra, with emphasis on the birds and mammals of the region; a very complete survey of the British Columbia coast; a look at the head hunters of New Guinea as they appear today; and a trip with an old-time circus. The April issue of the magazine has articles on Afghanistan, Poland, the wild burros of Death Valley, and article on what is being done about the weather, and beautifully-done Easter eggs.

Two juvenile books--one on cats and the other on dogs--give detailed descriptions and colored photographs.

The kindergarten to grade two class group are very lucky this week. "The Lorax" by Dr. Seuss is new. "Bear Circus", also new, is beautifully illustrated. "The Sesame Street Story Book" scarcely needs any introduction. Titch was a little boy with a bigger sister and a still bigger brother and the book is beautifully illustrated. Note--Picture books are very expensive. It would be appreciated if small children are supervised while handling them.

"The Little Broomstick" is Mary Stewart's first book for children. Suited especially for nine to 12 age group.

"The Mother Tree" by Ruth Whitehead is the story of a motherless girl who visits her grandmother and grandfather in West Texas. The Mother tree is a sprawling old mesquite. "The Mother Tree" has characters who will live on. "For Pollution Fighters Only" is the latest addition to the collection in that category.

This week there is something new for adults in every category. "Nemesis" by Agatha Christie is a sequel to "The Caribbean Mystery". Again Miss Marple is called upon to solve a mystery. "And all the Stars a Stage" is Science Fiction packed with action. The earth is to be destroyed and the sun will explode within nine years. The flagship, Javelin, heads a fleet of 30 ships who will wander around in space seeking new homes for the selected survivors on board.

"The Latch Key Kid" by June Bhatia has Hank as its chief character. Hank is the child of a mother much more interested in her clubs and social affairs than she is in her child. At an early age Hank is put out to play with a key around his neck in order to get into the house to attend to his own needs. Hank grows up with great resentment towards his mother. In his late teens he writes a book which he calls the "Cheaper Sex", and what happens next in Hank's home town is what the book is all about.

"The Embassy Madonna" is by Lydia Kirk. Mademoiselle Jacquelin, active in the Belgian Resistance, has a nose for the intrigue. "84 - Charing Cross Road" by Helene Hanff has been getting favorable reviews for the past year and a half. It is a small volume made up entirely of letters exchanged over a period of 20 years between New York writer and the staff of a London book store. Most of the letters from the book store are written by Frank Doel. When he died in December of 1938 as the result of a ruptured appendix, Miss Hanff asked permission of his wife to print the letters. Permission was granted and the result is a charming little book.

If you are old enough to remember the last war you need not be told who Bill Mauldin is. "Up Front" with Willie and Bill was the G.I.'s favorite reading. General George Patton was infuriated by Mauldin's satire and wanted to court martial him while other eminent generals thought his work a morale builder and encouraged him. All this brings us to "The Brass Ring" by Mauldin, which you will not want to miss.

"The Assassins" by Elia Kazan is a story of two murders--one at the first of the book and the other at the end. The centre of the book is about a murderous way of life. If you enjoyed Kazan's last book, "The Arrangement", you will want to read his latest.

The book you have been asking for, "Nunaga" by Duncan Pryde, is here. Pryde writes with feeling of his life among the Eskimo. Not what one would call a pretty book, but probably quite authentic.

The latest Science Fiction is "Sleepwalker's World" by Gordon R. Dickson--a most imaginative book. Also newly-arrived are a number of books for younger readers. A collection of picture books, light romances suitable for beginning teens and two new "Freddy" books.

Adult membership is $1.00 for 12 months. One reader tells us that she has read over 100 books in the last year. This means one cent a book. If the books average a cost of $5 each, she has received $500 worth of reading material for $1. Can you beat that for value received?

Library hours are: Tuesday, 12-1:00, 3-5:00, and 7-9:00 p.m. Friday, 3-5:00 p.m. and 7-9:00 p.m. The library is in the Town Hall. Come in the east door. Visitors are welcome any time the library is open.

Mark Twain said it: "Keep away from people who try to belittle your ambitions. Small people always do that, but the really great make you feel that you, too, can become great."

Gainford News

Carrie and Roy Lenz spent some time at Clarke's while their parents went with a busload of young people to Edmonton.

The Scouts, Cubs, Guides, and Brownies and their leaders took in the Western Rodeo in Edmonton Wednesday evening. The tame buffalo was of great interest to all. On the way home the young people treated Mrs. Strand, one of the leaders, to some birthday songs to help her celebrate.

Visitors at the home of Harry Clarke were Mr. and Mrs. Al Shumaker of Lytton, B.C. who were on their way to Regina for their son's graduation into the Police force.

Saturday morning the Clarkes left for Valemont to celebrate Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hauer's (Ida's niece) 25th Wedding Anniversary. However, in the midst of the festivities, word was received that Mrs. Hauer's sister-in-law's brother and two children had been killed in an accident. The mother, and four people from the other car, are in hospital.

To add to the bad news for the Clarkes, Mrs. Clarke's brother, Rae Biffert, phoned that his girls couldn't make it for the holidays because his daughter, Lorraine, had been involved in a car accident and was in Royal Alex Hospital.

Paul Lenz of Red Deer spent the weekend with his cousins, Bud and Wayne Lenz in Gainford.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Baggar of Grande Cache are spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gitlinger. The Jack Hartt family of Edmonton are out at their cottage on Isle Lake.

Mack and Arlene Lyle and family stopped in Gainford to visit with Mack's father and other relatives while on their way to Victoria.

The Baurrus family made renovations to their cabin this week with the help of the Motsah family.

Sandy McNamee placed fourth in the Ladies Barrel Race at the Western Rodeo in Edmonton.

The McNamees have moved into their new home and have Mr. and Mrs. Reiger of Ryercroft as their Easter guests.

The Gerald McEachern family from the Wye district east of Edmonton spent Easter Sunday with Shirley's parents, the McLachlans, and the Browns and Forbes families.

SUB-MITS

FROM THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

By the time you read this, your child will have brought home his report card again. Also, by now the teachers are beginning to plan the type of program your child should be on next year. Most children will continue on the regular program next year. A few children will be placed on an enrichment pattern to challenge their abilities further. A few more children will need to go on a remedial pattern. Factors such as age of child, previous attainments, attitudes, etc will influence the program your child is placed on. Please feel free to discuss your child's program with the teacher. Sometimes even teachers have difficult decisions to make, particularly where the borderline is not clear. Your concern and help is appreciated.

Education Notes

FROM THE
SUPERINTENDENT'S DESK

SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION REPORT:

A new circular designed elementary school is planned for Brookwood Park in Spruce Grove. The new school will include 15 general classrooms, one science-experience classroom, two ancillary classrooms and one central library with over 2,000 square feet of open space. In addition, a 3,840 square foot gymnasium, plus the usual non-instructional areas such as offices, the infirmary and a counselling room will be provided. Tenders for construction are being received, and it is planned that construction will begin by the end of April. The school is designed to accommodate about 500 elementary students. It is hoped that the school will be operative by January 1, 1973.

The Brookwood school will feature a number of large open areas and an instructional materials centre. It is also designed to accommodate community use after school hours. The appropriate use of open area facilities is one means of achieving curricular goals related to inquiry learning, individualization of instruction, and nongrading in the elementary school. According to an Open Space Schools Project Bulletin, teachers who have worked with open space schools report that they have been able to group and re-group pupils in a variety of ways more easily than they could in schools where there are self-contained classrooms. They have been able to make better use of their own special competencies by planning cooperatively with other teachers using the same open area. They have found that the open space at their disposal has assisted them in the development and introduction of innovative practices such as nongrading and team teaching. They have been able to provide opportunities for pupils to have much freer access to a wide variety of instructional materials ranging all the way from a wealth of library resources to audio-visual media and laboratory equipment.

Additions to Winterburn School and Spruce Grove Junior High School are progressing very well. It is expected that the Winterburn addition will be completed by the end of April, and that the addition at Spruce Grove will be finished by the end of June.

The contract price for the Winterburn addition was $309,830.00. It is being built by Trans Alberta Construction Ltd. of Edmonton. The Spruce Grove addition is being built by H.D.C. Construction Co. Ltd. at a cost of $266,916.00.

SCHOOL LIFE EXTENSION PROGRAM

The Provincial Government has announced the introduction of a new school life extension program.

Under the program the Provincial Government will provide partial funding to school boards for important major repairs to older schools. The program is province-wide and will commence immediately, on a one year experimental basis.

Mr. Hyndman, Minister of Education, said, "This new program represents an expansion and extension of the previous school renovating and upgrading scheme. There was a limit to the dollars available to boards under the previous plan; the new program sets no limit and could result in more schools receiving more repairs and upgrading than in previous years. The previous scheme dealt with relatively narrowly defined renovation projects, the new plan has fewer limitations and will enable the school plant as a whole to be assessed and upgraded as necessary. Apart from certain general guidelines set by the Department of Education, local school boards will retain their autonomy in setting priorities as to which schools need which kind of upgrading."

The program will be administered by the School Buildings Branch of the Department of Education. On-site appraisals by Departmental Maintenance Supervisors will assess the feasibility of individual projects. Expected increase in the use of the building will become a major criterion in determining the percentage of cost to be subsidized by the Government in each case.

No extra funds will be allotted to the program but approved projects will receive partial funding from the Department in the form of debentures of short-term loans.

It is reasonable to expect that a relatively small investment in important repairs can extend the life of a building by five to ten years. On a long-term basis, this program may postpone the need for erecting several new structures, an important consideration in view of the general decline in school population.

Some folks couldn't even borrow trouble if they had to put up the collateral.

Tomahawk News

The Tomahawk and District Curling Club held their annual meeting April 3 at the curling rink. Looking back over the winter's curling, a very successful season was realized with so much interest from the young folks.

A new president and secretary-treasurer were elected, with Stan Zaniewicz becoming president, and Peggy Lysak secretary-treasurer. Thanks were given to retiring president Herb Zander and retiring secretary-treasurer Adele Steinke. Also to Greta Pryor who helped with catering to bonspiels and banquets.

A speedy recovery to Wanda Zander who underwent an operation in University Hospital.

THANK YOU

We would like to thank all our friends who worked so hard and all who attended our farewell party and for making it such a great success. The gift is lovely and so has your friendship been these past seven years we have lived in Drayton Valley. Thank you again.

Stu, Lorraine Custance and Family

Sincere thanks to all the many, many kind friends from Drayton Valley and District who sent me the beautiful bouquet and good wishes for "My Appreciation Night" on March 14th. I appreciate your thoughtfulness and gift greatly.

Mrs. Comelia R. Wood

Many thanks to the Ramona Rockets modern square dance club for their performance at our March meeting. It was enjoyed very much.
